⊗ Basseterre, St. Kitts

With dormant volcanoes, pink beaches and gorgeous green hills, St. Kitts is a beautiful backdrop to any Caribbean adventure. Founded in 1623 by both the French and the British, the island's deep colonial history is reflected in the abandoned fortresses, as well as its landscaped gardens, city squares and architectural details.

Basseterre (not to be confused with Basse-Terre, Guadeloupe), is the capital of the Federation of Saint Kitts and Nevis in the West Indies. Situated against the irresistible setting of St. Kitts' emerald green hills and punctuated by elegant Georgian architecture, Basseterre, is one of the best of the Caribbean's small capitals.

Highlights

The city of Basseterre has one of the most tragic histories of any Caribbean capital, destroyed many times by colonial wars, fire, earthquakes, floods, riots and hurricanes. Despite all of this, a considerable number of well-restored buildings still exist in the downtown area. Colorful old buildings with arcades, verandahs, and louvered windows are among some of the most perfect examples of West Indian architecture in the Caribbean. Highlights include:

- The Treasury Building: the domed colonial building that stands right on the waterfront is a reminder of the value of these islands as sugar colonies. This was a customs house, and virtually everything that arrived at or departed from St. Kitts passed through its arches, including until recently all visitors.
- The Circus: patterned after London's Piccadilly Circus, it is the main square and center of town. Its centerpiece is St. Kitt's Big Ben, a four-faced, ornate Victorian clock tower made of green stone, with coats-of-arms, columns, and a fountain at the base.
- St. George's Cathedral: originally christened Notre Dame in 1670 by the French, it was destroyed more than once and was most recently rebuilt in 1869.

👣 Shore Excursions

The two-island nation combines enchanting beaches and beautiful mountains with plenty of activities to engage your body and rich history to thrill your mind. The legacies of the sugar industry have been converted into pleasant plantation estates, and the local culture is mellow & friendly. Sign up for a tour so that you don't miss out on the charm of the plantations and the astonishing Brimstone Fortress in the Essential St. Kitts tour. You can also enjoy the leisurely Catamaran Fan Ta Sea cruise along the scenic southeast coastline of St. Kitts, snorkel in the clear, calm waters abounding with marine life. After snorkeling the bar is open for the rest of the tour. Your destination is the sister island of Nevis for a barbecue lunch at our private beach camp—a day not to be missed. Not sure what to do in Dominica? Stop by and learn about this amazing port of call at 8:00pm in the Emporium on Deck 5 Midship.
