High Seas, Great Dining

If anyone knows his way around a kitchen it's chef Jacques Van Staden, Celebrity Cruises' Culinary Vice President. Van Staden's journey to Celebrity has taken him literally around the world, from his birthplace of Pretoria, South Africa, where he pretended to be playing rugby while secretly working at a local French bistro, to the glossy eateries of Las Vegas and Washington, D.C.'s power-player dining scene. For the past two years, the James Beard "Rising Star of the Year" nominee has applied his philosophy of trying to meet every guest's needs with creative and tasty cuisine at Celebrity with striking success.

"Every great chef knows you can't please everyone all the time, but you can and certainly should try," says Van Staden. That said, he's always excited by the challenge, on any given night, of creating moveable feasts that leave everyone sated and anticipating even more. "I want to enhance what's already an incredible dining experience, identifying what our guests want and ensure a consistent experience across the fleet," he says.

As part of his own at-sea dining education, Van Staden has made a point to "study our guests' comments and expectations," he says, as well as evaluate Celebrity's guest demographics. Based on those and other factors, "we can identify where we can improve because my team and I strive to be better each day. We never take anything for granted."

That dedication to fine food and the ultimate guest dining experience has led Van Staden and Celebrity to roll out a series of exciting menus and options for guest dining. "Our objective is to set the trend, not follow it," says Van Staden, who's inspired culinary program now includes more than 200 menu offerings, upgrades in casual dining and an entirely new approach to buffet feasts.

"Our guests loved viewing the elaborate creations we presented at the midnight gala buffet, but very few wanted to actually eat that late," says Van Staden.

The new Celebrity SeaDay Brunch features everything from fresh fruit, gourmet cheeses and cold cuts to salads, seafood, carving station, paninis and mimosas, in a lavish setting and live entertainment.

With casual dining, the menu at Destinations sports more made-to-order and specially designed dishes celebrating the best of the particular ports of call on any given itinerary. Late-night noshing has gone hipster via an "after theater" menu that's chock full of savory goodies like tartlets, hot brochettes, canapes, artisan cheeses, and napoleons.

And while Celebrity's menus hit high notes with everything from sushi and aged beef to French, Asian and Italian specialties, not to mention an array of Heart Healthy and Vegetarian options, "you can still get meat and potatoes if you want to," says Van Staden.

Dessert Extravaganza
