AT SEA | THURSDAY, JULY 16, 2009

SUNRISE: 6:27 AM | SUNSET: 9:06 PM | DRESS: FORMAL

United Nations of the Noordam

Nowhere else is the term “United Nations” better served than on board a Holland America Line ship. Here on the Noordam, we prove that people of many nations, religions and beliefs, can work and live together, not only adequately, but very harmoniously indeed. All the crew smiles you see are evidence of this fact! Ask any ship employee of Holland America Line what his or her fondest memory of life at sea is and they will tell you it is the joy of meeting so many diverse people. On board the ship, we celebrate the national holidays of the Netherlands, the United Kingdom, the Philippines, Indonesia, the United States and Canada. Religion also plays a large part in the lives of many ship personnel. Our staff members’ beliefs include Catholic, Muslim, Hindu, Protestant and Jewish faiths, to name a few.

Making Waves

Sea water is rarely still: it’s usually moving in waves, tides or currents. Waves are caused by wind blowing across the surface of the ocean. The height of a wave is determined by the wind speed, the time the wind has been blowing, and the distance the wave has traveled over the ocean. The highest wave ever recorded had a height of 116 feet.
