Welcome to Juneau, Alaska

In the late 19th century, a Tlingit Chief named Kowee led two drunken prospectors to a creek which emptied into the Gastineau Channel. After a few hours of panning, the prospectors, Richard Harris and Joe Juneau, found gold. That discovery changed not only their lives, but the course of history and the face of Alaska itself. On October 4, 1880, Harris and Juneau laid claim to the area which they called Gold Creek. Their discovery produced one of the largest finds in the history of the Alaska Gold Rush era. Juneau is nestled between Mount Juneau (3,576 ft.) and Mount Roberts (3,819 ft.) which gives the town not only a beautiful, scenic setting, but also a natural protection against the cold winds and permafrost which are so much a part of life in Alaska. Glaciers like Mendenhall, Taku and Herbert help contribute not only to the mild climate in Juneau, but also to Juneau's isolation from the rest of Alaska. In 1912, the Capital of Alaska was moved from Sitka to Juneau, where it has remained ever since. Its inability to expand has caused many to seek to change the capital to Anchorage, but for now, all such efforts have failed. Although the Federal Buildings dot the horizon, Juneau has maintained most of its original gold rush architectural heritage because the town has not suffered any major fires, as have many of Alaska's other gold rush towns. The historic district, located in the downtown area of Juneau, is filled with buildings and houses as colorful as Juneau's past.

FROM THE NAVIGATOR

In the early morning we enter Chatham Strait, which takes us to Kingsmill Point Pilot Station where we will reduce our speed and embark our first of two Alaskan Pilots, around 5:00am. With the Pilot on board we then turn into Frederick's Sound. This leads us to Stephen's Passage, between the Brothers and Sisters Islands and past the majestic Taku Glacier in Taku Inlet. We sail into the Gastineau Channel where Juneau is located.

TRAVEL GUIDE PRESENTATION: FEATHER, FINS, & FURS – ALASKAN WILDLIFE

Join Travel Guide Pauline as she presents an informative lecture about the wildlife of these uncommonly rich waters. Learn why this is a naturalist's paradise, how to recognize many of the critters that you will be meeting along the way, and enjoy some stories about their behavior and the cycle of life. Today, in the Queen's Lounge, 4 & 5 at 9:00am.

LOCAL SHOW: THE ALASKA STRING BAND

This 45 minute show features history of the Juneau area, spectacular photographs of wildlife and scenery, and an up close encounter with living in Southeast Alaska. This folkloric presentation is laced with live music, stories, and incredible photography with your hosts, Juneau's own Zahasky Family. 7:15pm • Queen's Lounge, 4
*CDs can be purchased on a cash basis
